He said that while the Speaker had not been able, as he knew, to name all the committees, yet there were matters which the Ways and Means Committee, aiready organized, could consider, citing which the ways and aleans committee, already organized, could consider, citing among other things, the resolution relating to Canadian reciprocity.

Mr. De Armond, of Missouri, also criticised the Republican majority for its course, saying it tended to mortify the President.

Mr. Payne, of New York, upon whose request unanimous consent was given for debate on the motion to adjourn over, replying to the opposition, took occasion to say that the Republicans would hardly eare to take up the question of turiff revision and disturb conditions on the eve of a presidential campaign. He also said the time was not opportune to consider reciprocity with Canada, as desired by the minority leader.

There was a party alignment on the vote on the motion to adjourn over, the Democrats voting against it. The motion prevailed.

COLORED DEAF.

Only Virginia Makes No Provision for Them.

The House Finance Committee yester-day morning took up the consideration of Hon. S. Gordon Cumming's bill onti-tled "A bill to establish the Virginia State School for the Education of the State School for the Education of the Colored Deaf and the Colored Blind."

Mr. Cumming read an address to the committee prepared by William C. Ritter, of Hampton, president of the Virginia Association of the Deaf, the State organization of the former deaf students of the school at Staunton.

Hon. Samuel H. Miller, the blind editor of Congressman Glass' Lynchburg paper, also addressed the committee in behalf of the blil.

Hon. James H. Lindsay, of Charlottosville, was another speaker in behalf of the blil.

Hon. James H. Dindsay, of Charlottosville, was another speaker in behalf of the blil.

Mr. Cumming introduced Mr. John E.

ville, was another speaker in behalf of the establishment of the proposed very needful institution.

Mr. Gumming introduced Mr. John E. Ray, superintendent of the North Carolina Colored Deaf and Blind School, who had come to Richmond by invitation. Mr. Ray told of his work in his State, and his statements were very interesting and convincing. Among other things he told of repeated efforts of colored people in Virginia with deaf or blind children to have their afflicted children admitted for education in the North Carolina school, some of the efforts being rather desperate, but amusing. In one instance a colored woman living in Danville, Va. had sent a letter to be mailed in a North-Carolina town to give the impression that she was a resident of Carolina. The ruse, however, was discovered. Mr. Ray, stated he had had over a dozen applicants from Virginia for admission to his school. The North Carolina law does not allow children from outside that State to be educated at the Raleigh institution.

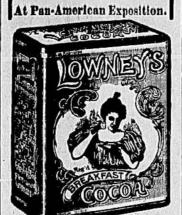

It was also stated that the Maryland school in Bultimore was repeatedly retusing requests for admission from Virginia.

Mr. Ritter stated that he had the names and addresses of 231 colored children, either deaf or blind, in Virginia, which State is about the only one that has failed to make provision for their education, although the white deaf and hind have been educated since 1839, the State at present making an appropriation of $40,000 annually for the support of the school at Staunton.

After an hour's segsion the committee arose without coming to any conclusion Chairman Boaz fixed Monday morning as the time for taking up the matter again.

GUNBOAT

The Auxiliary Cruiser Yankton Goes Full Speed Into the Stern of the Hustler.

STEAMER NEUSE ASHORE

Driven Aground in Albemarle Sound During a Heavy Blow and Asks for Aid.

NORFOLK, VA., Nov. 27.-A harbor collision, which narrowly missed being a fatal one, occurred this morning off the Southern Rallway dock, when the United States yacht gunboat, Yankton, crashed into the stern of the tug. Hustler, splitting her open to the boiler-room and sinking her instantly.

The collision occurred at 9 o'clock and was witnessed by many passengers aboard the ferry boats. The Hustler is one of Joseph M. Clark's towing fleet. She was working for the Scaboard Air Line Rallway, whose tug, Dorothea, la or the rallway for repairs. on either side of her, the Hustler was bound down the river, for the cotton combound down the river, for the cotton compress at Atlantic City. The Yankton, one of the largest yachts owned by the government, was proceeding to sea with a training class from the receiving ship Franklin, aboard. Those aboard the tug state that the gunboat was moving very swiftly, and that she seemed unable or unwilling to change her course, and that with almost no warning at all, she overtook the tug and crashed into her stern. The Hustler' began almost immediately to fill, and went down in a very few minutes.

JUMPED FOR THEIR LIVES.

JUMPED FOR THEIR LIVES. JUMPED FOR THEIR LIVES.
Captain Machen and his crow of six men escaped from the sinking tug by climbing aboard the two barges she had in tow at the time. But for the fact that these barges were alongside, there must almost certainly have been lives lost, as the water of the river is loy and no man could have remained affoat until succor reached him.

The Hustler is one of the ablest tugs in the harbor, and her loss means financial injury of upwards of $3,000 to her owners.

cial injury of upwards of $3,000 to her owners.

The owners of the Hustler say that they have no desire to criticise the officers of the gunboat unduly, but they are able to account for the collision only on the ground of careless or incompetent navigation of the government vessel. It is probable that the comanding officer of the Yankton will be summoned before a board of inquiry at the navy-yard.

The Hustler lies in the channel and blocks it off the Southern Raillway dock. Arrangements were at once made for raising her, and the Merritt Wrecking Company has already gone to work on the job. The Clarks hope the tug will be raised by to-morrow evening. She will be taken to Colionan's railway and there repaired.

there repaired.

STEAMER AGROUND.

The steamer Nouse, of the (fleet of the Norfolk and Southern Ballway, is reported aground in Albemarle Sound. She was caught last night in a severe blow, and driven ashore, in a spot not easily accessible to wreckers, who will be sent to her assistance. The steamer's entire passenger list is aboard, but, although the weather is bitterly cold and the gale continues, there is no fear felt for their safety. There is an abundance of food and fuel aboard. The Luckenbach Towing Company, which was asked for a vessel to go to the Neuse's assistance, had no tug in port that they could send, and other means will be resorted to for floating the vessel.

THE CENTRAL ON THE CARD PARTIES

Says Dr. Robert Strange Has Done a Service to the veck, there is a short editorial warmly commending the rector of St. Paul's Church for his sermon of last Sunday against card-playing for prizes. The

To the rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Richmand, the Rev. Dr. Strange, we are indebted in all our churches and Church, Richmand, the Rev. Dr. Strange, we are indebted in all our churches and sacial life for his earnest protest against the small gambling at card tables in the homes of our people. In his sermon last Sunday he spoke kindly and vigorously against the gaming for prizes and every form of gambling by women, as evil in itself, as descerating the home and as baneful to their sons and other young men. We heartly thank The Times-Dispatch for publishing this morning the substance of Dr. Strange's faithful remonstrance. What is needed is the counge to do right against prevailing fashion, upon the part of the matrons who are at the head of the homes, in which sons and daughters are growing up and are being shaped in character and taste. Most sincerely we hope that it will be found that this faithful message has not been spoken and then printed in value. found that this faithful message has not been spoken and then printed in valu-Spoken to many who are leaders in so-cial life, it will be far-reaching if it influences them, and far-reaching as it is read by a much greater company.

ANNUAL SESSION. Virginia State Horticultural Society to Meet in Pulaski. ciety to Meet in Pulaski.

The eighth annual session of the Virginia State Horticultural Society will be held in the courthouse at Pulaski, Va., on December 2d, and 3d.

Governor Montague is to be one of the speakers. The features of this meeting will consist of addresses and discussions on the best methods of advertising Virginia to the world as a banner fruit producing State, and the members' fruit exhibit, for which valuable prizes are offered.

Just Routine Business.

H. E. Lee Camp, Confederate Veterans held a brief session list night with a small atendance, on account of the low temperature. Only routine business was transacted,
